

ADVERTISEMENT

Good Morning | Login

Mobile Subscribe (FREE) Site Map About Us Contact Us Sunday Supplement

Monday, May 31, 2010
2:43 a.m. CDT

Autos

Careers

Classifieds

Real Estate

News Sports Business Health Lifestyle Entertainment Obituaries Weather Opinion Blogs
Search

Surprising number of teens are underweight

Monday, May 31, 2010

GRANADA, Spain, May 31 (UPI) -- Researchers in Spain found the number of teenagers in Europe with excessively low weight was higher than expected.

University of Granada researchers, led by Enrique Garcia Artero, found the rate of teenagers with excessively low weight was 3.9 percent among boys and 4.8 percent among girls. In fact, the percentage among girls was higher than the 3.0 percent found for obesity.

Enrique Garcia Artero said the finding is important because it is easier to make lifestyle changes in teens than in adults.

"Firstly, because their personality, interests and habits are not still formed, so they are not as resistant to change as adults," the researchers said in a statement. "And secondly, because we have the best environment to model their habits: the educational system -- school and high school."

The researchers found tests easily implemented by a physical education teacher -- including the 40-meter race, hand grip strength, the long jump with feet together, body mass index, waist circumference and skin folds -- all easily conducted by the physical education teacher, to be valid and reliable assessments of aerobic capacity, muscle strength and body composition.

Study conclusions were based on 3,000 Spanish teenagers, 3,500 European teenagers and an additional sample of 126 teenagers from Granada.

Email Comment

0

Comments

Use the comment form below to begin a discussion about this content.

Log in to comment

Username:

Password:

Log in

Forgotten your password?

Sign up

Your e-mail:

Sign up

ADVERTISEMENT

Odd News

Woman allegedly has $32,000 in bra

Woman pinches pennies, leaves $4.5 million

Denied college because of age - she's 13

The Best Party wins Iceland election; promises polar bear, free towels

'Professional' litigant plans another suit

Recently Commented

LIMBAUGH: They're All Obama Liberals Now

Beck apologizes for mocking Obama daughter

BUCHANAN: Remembering Wars and Warriors

Overnight shootings leave three people injured

MALKIN: Look who's behind the White House/Sestak stonewall